

A-B-P Ministries Fact Sheet

This ministry is an evangelical Christian, Portuguese-language Web-based effort to fight pornography, prostitution, sex trafficking, sexual abuse, sexual addiction and the hypersexualized culture (as well as aid those working to escape from and/or fight against the same) on three continents within the historically and culturally interrelated nations of Angola (Africa), Brazil (South America) and Portugal (Europe), and secondarily in the rest of the Lusophone world, via the web site Pornografia Destrói (pornodestroi.com) and its social media affiliates. It is modeled roughly after the National Center on Sexual Exploitation site in Washington, D.C. Parallel ministries under the A-B-P “umbrella” are Ouro Refinado and Ministérios A-B-P.

- Founded in July of 2012, Pornografia Destrói (“Pornography destroys” in Portuguese) is apparently the only such ministry (with the purposes outlined above) of its kind within the Portuguese-speaking world on the internet. Both the web site and its Twitter feed are updated daily.
- It features Portuguese language news, feature article and/or video updates from all fronts within this battle, with over 30 sub-categories of issue-specific story collections.
- This site contains a collection of country-specific resources for those in Angola, Brazil and Portugal who are attempting to flee from, or report, sexual exploitation in any of those three nations.
- It also has the Portuguese-speaking world’s most comprehensive (and perhaps “only”) collection of testimonies of ex-pornographic actors, actresses and producers, as well as those of ex-prostitutes, ex-sexual addicts and sexual abuse survivors.
- Our position is that stronger families are the most important part of fighting these problems, and the ministry works to promote ways to build godly and wise men, women and children.
- We also heavily promote (for free) a variety of ministries and NGOs which aid in promoting causes and products as internet safety, filtering, porn-free social media sites and helping those working to overcome sexual addiction.
- Upcoming germane events such as seminars and church conferences are displayed on each web page with the accompanying date, city, state/district/province and nation.
- The web site and Pinterest feeds contain a collection of artwork and graphics in Portuguese related to these battles, as well as over 200 subject-related videos from all three countries.
- With a strong evangelical Christian following, this ministry works to provide “aid and comfort to friends” for other Portuguese-speaking pro-family and pro-Christian ministries.

- Founded in November of 2016, Ouro Refinado means “Refined gold” in Portuguese, inspired by Job 23:10 as well as Revelation 3:18.
- The Twitter feed for this is exclusively Bible verses in Portuguese, and is essentially a verse-by-verse walk through Revelation (“Apocalypse”, in Portuguese) with interspersed other verses concerning Jesus Christ as our eternal King, eternal life and the descriptions of eternity with God from throughout the Bible.
- It is meant for those seeking and taking comfort from Biblical prophecy, and who look forward to Jesus in His eternal kingdom. (Revelation 1:3, Revelation 21:1-5)

- Founded in November of 2016, Ministérios A-B-P is the Portuguese translation of. “A-B-P Ministries”. The Twitter feed is updated daily, with the Facebook page updated weekdays.
- The Twitter and Facebook feeds are at present a travelogue through Angola, Brazil and Portugal featuring pictures (with photo credits) from across those countries, with the Twitter feed mixed with Bible verses and “tweets” from other Lusophone evangelical Christian ministries.
- A-B-P Ministries is the “umbrella” under which this and the other two ministries are being incorporated, and is currently in the process of becoming an official Texas non-profit corporation with intent on becoming a 501c3 ministry.

Angola, Brazil, Portugal

Size: 1,246,700 km
 (About twice the size of Texas)

Main Export: Oil

- Pornography: Illegal. Child pornography is blocked by the Angolan government. Prostitution: Illegal.
- Media reports consistently indicate that Angola has strong problems of prostitution and sexual abuse among children nationwide, as well as sexual slavery. Brazilians are trafficked here.
- Luanda is ranked as the most expensive city in the world(!) to live in for expatriates, yet 68% of the nation lies below the poverty line, a convergence which is fertile ground for prostitution. Angola has sub Saharan Africa's 2nd largest economy.
- Luanda also has aspirations of being the "Miami" or "Dubai" of Africa. Unfortunately, Miami, FL, USA and Dubai, UAE are capitals of human trafficking in the New and Old worlds, respectively. Angola is also projected to be the 2nd most popular emerging tourist destination in the world.
- It is becoming the transport/communications hub of both southern and Portuguese-speaking Africa.
- A saying in the nation goes: "If there is a traffic jam in São Paulo, they know about it in Luanda".
- Brazilian telenovelas (soap opera equivalents which often feature nudity and highly sexualized content) are very popular in Angola and other Portuguese-speaking African nations. Brazilian fashion enjoys equal popularity in the country.

Brazil

Capital: Brasília
Largest city: São Paulo
Continent: South America
Population: 205,823,665
Size: 8,515,770 km
 (Slightly smaller than the U.S.)
Official language: Portuguese
 (Spoken nationwide)
Main Religions:
 Roman Catholic 65%,
 Protestant 22.9%
Main Export: Transport equipment

- Pornography: Legal. Brazil has been named as (a distant) second to the USA in the amount of pornography produced in the world. The nation has a significant child pornography problem. Prostitution: Legal, but illegal to operate a brothel or employ sex workers for any other purpose.
- Some research indicates Brazil has the highest percentage of women worldwide who watch porn.
- A report from the British Broadcasting Corporation indicated that Brazil has a chance of overtaking Thailand as the world's capital for child sex tourism.
- There is a massive amount of child prostitution in the nation. The BR-116, a highway that extends about the length of the U.S. Interstate between New York and Los Angeles via Chicago from Brazil's southeast to northeast, has approximately 1 known child trafficking point every 10 miles.
- Brazilian popular culture is highly sexualized, and has been for a long time been associated with lasciviousness in films such as "Blame it on Rio" (1984).
- Despite their nation having South America's largest economy, a populace of 16.8 million Brazilians live on approximately USD$1.35 per day.
- An old Brazilian saying: "Without sugar, there would be no Brazil. Without slavery, there would be no sugar. Without Angola, there would be no slaves." (Tragically, Brazil imported over 12 times the slaves from Africa than the United States of America did, according to the New York Times.)

Portugal

Capital: Lisboa (Lisbon)
Largest city: Lisboa
Continent: Europe
Population: 10,833,816
Size: 92,090 km
 (About the size of Virginia)
Official language: Portuguese
 (Spoken nationwide and in autonomous islands)
Main Religions:
 Roman Catholic 81%,
 Other Christian 3.3%
Main Export: Agriculture

- Pornography: Legal. Portugal is becoming a producer of filmed pornography for Europe. Prostitution: Legal, but illegal for a third party to benefit from, promote, encourage or facilitate the prostitution of another. Brazilians are not infrequently trafficked to Portugal for the rest of Europe.
- Portugal has long been the poorest nation in western Europe, and like Angola and Brazil, nations it colonized for around a half century, has had a reputation for great corruption in government.
- The country is also in the midst of a tourism "boom", which brings increased risk for prostitution. In the past decade it had a serious problem with "sex tourists" targeting vulnerable children.
- Currently, the Portuguese are in a debate about full legalization of prostitution, with those who desire the abolition of the practice accusing the government of wanting a tax revenue stream from the proposed legalization. (Brazil, to a degree, is having a similar discourse.)
- Brazilian TV shows have been immensely popular in Portugal, as in Angola.
- Historically, many Portuguese have viewed Angola as a playground. Automobile manufacturers and movie studios in the past would debut their new products for Portuguese audiences in Luanda, not Lisbon. In a modern turnabout, wealthy Angolans now own considerable properties and corporate interests in Portugal.
- Portugal colonized Angola a few hundred years before fellow nations like the British organized their African territories, and Portuguese settlers went throughout the country rather than only in select areas. Brazil was Portugal's only New World colony; the two were a united kingdom for a time.
